D. Gunn Foster At Dept.

Richard L. Gunn, associate professor of art, has been named head of the BYU Art Dept.

The change, effective July 15, was announced today by President Wilkinson. Dr. Gunn will succeed Dr. L. Dennis Andrus, who has been in charge of BYU's policy of rotating department chairmanships, according to President Wilkinson.

Dr. GUNN, who has been on sabbatical leave in Europe for a year, formerly was curator of the BYU Art Gallery and taught at BYU. He joined the BYU faculty in 1948.

He has awarded the BS degree in 1947 and the MS in 1950 both from BYU. In 1955 he earned the EdD degree from Stanford University.

ANDRUS, associate professor of art and education, was selected as department chairmanship in 1959. Specializing in printing and painting, Dr. Andrus has studied at Otis Art Institute, Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center, and the School of New York and Columbia Teachers College. He received the degree in 1942 and the MFA in 1943 at BYU and the EdD in 1958 at Colorado University.

The father of several art prize winners has exhibited his art in California, Utah, Boston, New York, Kansas, Colorado and Mississippi. His works are numerous school, state and private collections.

BYU's Art Dept. is part of the College of Arts and Sciences who head to a bachelors or master's degree. It offers programs in art education, commercial art, interior design, painting, printmaking, painting, and sculpture and ceramics.

'Anxious, little scared' ce 19 Y Orient tourers

By Vicki Turner
University Reporter

A few, a little scared, but "not too bad" are the 17 students who left West for an eight-week tour of Orient.

JOY LAWRENCE, chairman of BYU's Program Bureau, who had the tour summed up as "coked." He wasn't really scared though, just worried about whether everything was paid for, if they had all their gear. A lot of heavy planning and hard work have gone into preparing for the tour. Naomi Nielsen, student chairman of the Program Bureau, he pointed out that he and his wife have been into it problems which might be encountered with the scenery and other equipment.

ED WORK IS expected by the students making the tour. They know that it is going to be "from a vacation. Their seminar is described as being as evident by the fact that they left here Wednesday at 3 a.m. Not only will the schedule be difficult, but conditions in the Orient will present problems. The humidity and temperature conditions will require endurance in the face of much physical work.

Members of this hard-working group are Norm Nielsen, Alvin Johnson, Jerry Wible, Bernell Berrett, Jimmy Richardson, Bonnie Rowe, Sonja Richards, Karla Toland, Dick Davis, Duane Hiatt, Dennis O'Brien, Larry Nielsen, Terry O'Brien, Little Wright, Janet Cutrer, Fred Combs, Bill Combs, Fred Thompson, director, and Mr. Lawrence. Nielsen said these Program Bureau members were chosen because they have given most generously of their talent.

NEILSEN pointed out that there are many married men among the troupe and their wives are sacrificing in order that they might go.

Although they are making the trip to entertain G.I.'s, the main purpose, as expressed by Mr. Lawrence, is "to bring a touch of the gospel to those they entertain, and to present a picture of BYU to them."

4,000 figure of registrants still in sight

Enrollment figures for the summer session will be released June 25, said Summer School Dean Dean A. Peterson Wednesday, since 3,034 students have registered so far and latecomers may sign up through June 27.

Last summer 2,392 students registered in the first day and total enrollment was 3,222, he said.

DEAN PETERSON estimated that more than 40 per cent of the registrants would be graduate students compared with 35 per cent last year. The increase is due to the addition of 400 students in the instructional program on campus first session for their bimennial convention boost the graduate ranks. Students may change their registration schedule today and Friday without a fee, according to Dean of Students and Records Alma P. Burton. After Friday a one dollar fee will be charged for registration changes.

Today and Friday latecomers may register, and disillusioned students may make arrangements to stay in the Smith Ballroom. Starting Monday these matters will be taken care of at the office of Admissions and Records in A-133 Smoot Administration Bldg.

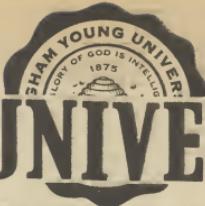

Inaugural Ball casual, stag

"Summer Goes Orbiting" is the theme for Friday's Inaugural Ball. Contrary to the atmosphere the name "Inaugural Ball" might suggest, the dance is casual and strictly stag.

The ball will be held in the multi-purpose area of the Smith Family Living Center at 8:30 p.m. An admission of 25 cents will be charged and refreshments with an "orbiting" theme will be served, according to Mary Carr, chairman of the ball.

NEWLY ELECTED summer school officers will be introduced by last year's summer officers said Bev McKnight, elections committee chairman.

Les Young, journalism major from Sidney, Australia, will be master of ceremonies for the evening. Dick Ballou's six piece combo will furnish dancing music.

Same old stuff? Maybe

"Like before—Same old thing—We've heard it before—He's got a broken record" were comments we heard after President Wilkinson's address to the first assembly audience of the year Monday.

MOST OF US who have been around for a while realize that President Wilkinson is a conservative Republican. We also realize he believes firmly that the people should support the government but never the government the people. We know these things because he has told us many times, and we have checked his words against his actions, emerging with the realization that President Wilkinson unflinchingly adheres to his expressed ideals.

There was more to President Wilkinson's speech than just a re-spouting of his political biases, however. He placed the blame for too much government power where it belongs—on each of us who, because of our slothfulness and laxity, allow the government to carry our burdens.

President Wilkinson spoke a lot about private sins in his talk themed "America, Land of Promise" as well as national ills. We feel he was trying to show that private sins become national in scope when a large percentage of the population indulges in them. As he said, if our good as a nation does not outweigh our bad as a nation, America will become the land of no promise.

SOME ATTENDEES at the assembly were no doubt so busy speculating about the speaker's motives that they didn't get the message of the talk. Some of these may well have been among those who made the above comments. Perhaps President Wilkinson used the time allotted him to let flow his political beliefs again and just used the bits on crime increase, immorality and payola in entertainment to conceal his purpose. And maybe our president was interested in helping us to realize our responsibility in correcting a gross national evil so that this country may remain "a land above all other lands."

We don't really care about his motives—there was a message and we got it.

400 religion teachers here for more training

More than 400 LDS seminary and institute personnel have convened on the BYU campus for their biennial convention.

FIVE WEEKS of intensive training will include classes, workshops, and committee sessions designed to better prepare LDS seminary teachers to work in the LDS Church educational system according to Alma Gardner, executive secretary and editor for the Department of Education.

Dr. Gardner said the convention will be a time for the development of curriculum. He added that throughout the convention committees will work on curriculum and a testing program used to indicate individual
